PRESS RELEASE

Enyo Law hires new Of Counsel

LONDON - 18 July 2018 - Specialist disputes firm Enyo Law is pleased to announce that Gavkhar Saitazizova has recently joined the firm as Of Counsel. She will join a team of Enyo lawyers already active in handling Russian and CIS-related disputes.

Fluent in English, Russian and Uzbek, Gavkhar has experience of handling complex and high profile commercial disputes and international arbitration proceedings arising in Russia, the CIS and elsewhere. She has advised both state and commercial entities in multi-jurisdictional disputes across a wide range of industry sectors, including oil & gas, mining, telecoms and financial services.

Gavkhar has graduate degrees in law from the University of World Economy and Diplomacy in Tashkent, Uzbekistan, and from UC Berkeley School of Law. She also graduated from the London School of Economics and Political Science with an MSc degree in Law and Accounting.

Before joining Enyo Law, Gavkhar worked as counsel at the LCIA, where she was in charge of its Russian and CIS caseload, as well as its compliance with sanctions regulations. Prior to this role, Gavkhar worked with international law firms in London and Washington, DC. She is qualified to practice in England & Wales, New York and Uzbekistan.
