PRESS RELEASE

Enyo Law appoints new partner

LONDON - 16 July 2020 - Specialist disputes firm Enyo Law is delighted to announce the appointment of Boris Telyatnikov as partner to add to the firm's growing Former Soviet Union practice.

Boris joins Enyo Law from Taylor Wessing LLP and specialises in advising corporates and high net worth individuals in complex, high-value proceedings (High Court litigation and arbitration), often with cross-jurisdictional elements across a range of industry sectors, including financial services, natural resources and TMT. He represents clients in arbitrations under various institutional rules, including LCIA, ICC, SIAC and CAS, as well as in ad hoc proceedings. Boris also regularly advises on regulatory investigations and enforcement matters, as well as on white collar crime and sanctions.

Boris speaks English, Russian and German and has a long track record of advising clients from the Former Soviet Union in relation to contentious issues.

Simon Twigden, Enyo Law's Senior Partner, commented: "We are delighted to welcome Boris to Enyo Law. Both Enyo Law and Boris have a wealth of experience in acting on matters with links to the Former Soviet Union, an area that continues to dominate the London disputes market. We are one of a few firms in London that has several Russian speaking disputes partners (including also Evgeniya Rubinina, who joined the firm last year). We hope to continue to build on our reputation as one of the leading firms acting on disputes coming out of the Former Soviet Union region."

Note to Editors:

Boris is a Solicitor Advocate and holds a law degree (LLB) from the London School of Economics and Political Science. Prior to joining Enyo Law, Boris trained and qualified at Herbert Smith Freehills LLP in London and also practised at Shearman & Sterling (London) LLP for six years.
